

China Domestic Distribution

We understand your needs

China is both a major production base and a large consumer market. Whether your company does domestic or international business, you need a strong logistics partner with a depth of knowledge and a strong network to provide efficient logistics services. At Agility, we understand your needs are not limited to domestic freight services. We know you also require network visibility, hub solutions and value-added services throughout your supply chain.

Domestic cargo transportation services across China

Agility's Domestic Distribution teams are committed to moving your cargo seamlessly, securely and safely throughout China. To service demand in well-developed cities, we offer nation-wide and regional services: both long haul and regional transportation covering China's high-growth economic regions, including the Yangtze River Delta, Pearl River Delta and Bohai Bay regions as well as western China and intra-city JIT distribution. At the national level, our distribution services cover 150 China cities using our own fleet, trucks, and contracted vehicles. We have over 200,000 sq.m. of warehousing storage capacity in China.
